MEN OF STERLING VALUE.

WANTED FOR DUTIES OF LIFE AND THE STRUCTURE OF CHARACTER.

SENOR BY THE REV. HAROLD HARCOURT LESTER, D.D., AT THE METHODIST CHURCH, THE VARIOUS QUALITIES THAT ARE DESIRABLE IN THE MAKE-UP OF MEN.

Rev. Mr. Harcourt preached on Sunday evening to a very full house. His text was taken from 1st Corinthians 13th chapter 13 verse: "Quit you like men." Some of you, said the preacher, remember the call that was made for men as we entered upon our late war. In every State, city, town and hamlet the words met our eyes. "Men wanted!" It was a critical hour in our Nation's history. Work was to be done and only men could do it. All who answered the call were not accepted; only such as came up to the standard. Some too short; some too infirm some lacked this and some that; and so, many more were rejected than were accepted. And still the call was heard: "Men wanted!" I hear it to-day loud as ever. It meets my eyes in every city, town and village: "Men wanted." The question was once asked Napoleon, "What is the great want of France?" He answered, "Good mothers!" Give a child a good mother and everything is in its favor. Give it a bad mother and the odds will stand against it like betters like. When a proposition was made to enclose "Sporting with" I heard the words "Men wanted!" and said "that city is well fortified with a wall of men instead of brick." The material would be destroyed; but the mental would last. Men are the works could offer but little resistance to the foe, but when they are manned by men of stout-hearted courage, the city they defended was safe. The great want of the day is not crumbing architecture of bricks and mortar but men whose power of resisting evil shall be stronger than all the munitions of wall and bulwark. "Men wanted!" not alike in grain or texture—unlike in quantity and quality, but like in one principle. Many men are built of granite. Over the grave of buried love we wear the shaft. A coarse-grained homely stone is granite, not so serviceable as the smooth brown stone, but more serviceable, and it is wonderful what a polish emerald granite will take on.

Iron men. The iron man is firm and determined, harder than the granite, unless you get him heated. Right or wrong, you may hammer at him as long as you please—it is of no use if he only keeps cool. Steel men. Such possess all the excellent qualities of the iron man, but over and above these they are fitted to serve some purpose which the others cannot. They are all more elastic and delicate and will take on a better polish. The truth is, they are the same in stamp and material only better tempered. Honest men. In the seats of Congress; in the Senate Chamber; in the civil courts; in the counting room, the store, the workshop, etc. "Yes," you say, "I believe in honesty. Honesty is the best policy." He who acts simply on this principle is a dishonest man! Men wanted! Christian men; not in name only, but in life. Christ-like men, saved men, who are confident of having passed from death to life. Positive men, in standing up for that which is just and true and good. Negative men—able to say "No!"—and mean it. It was said of the people of Asia that they were all slaves to one man because they could not pronounce the word "No." This is the easiest word learned by the child but the most difficult to practice by the man.

Men wanted! Not perfect men—these are not for earth, but for heaven! And if we had such here, they would be of little service. We want men with weaknesses like unto their brethren, but supported by the grace of God, kept by power divine. Only such are proper exemplars—men like David, Daniel, Peter, Men of faith. A store-keeper of the Christian Commission was requested to cut the slices of bread thinner as the supply was fast giving out. He said, "Oh, no! I can't." "But our brethren are hungry." "But our bread will soon be gone." "Well, I have faith to believe the good Lord will send us more before we are quite out." He did as he liked, feed the hungry soldiers that pressed about him. The last loaf was taken from the shelf and hundreds were still unfed, when an immense load of provisions was driven up to the headquarters of the commission, more than enough to supply all their wants. The Lord, my hearers, does not require this slice, but a strong faith.

Men wanted. Benevolent men. Some years ago, a lady visited New York. She had a little girl with her, and took the little girl into the store and purchased some of the cakes for her; then into a dry goods store and purchased her some clothing; then into a shoe shop and bought her a pair of shoes. Coming out of the store the grateful little creature looked her full in the face and, with artless simplicity, said, "Are you God's wife?" "No," my hearers, while you may be called God's wife, you can make your life so beautiful that you shall be called God's son—God's daughter!

Men wanted. In the pulpit, to declare the whole counsel of God. It is a very easy matter for us preachers to talk about the sins of the patriarchs. It is always safe to deal sharply with the sins of 1000 years ago. But this was not Christ's method, nor the method of the Apostles. Men wanted in the pulpit. Men who can make your life so beautiful that you shall be called God's son—God's daughter!
